

Dividends and the attached franking add significantly to long term returns in the Australian market

